About the Program

Artist INC LIVE is a professional development seminar designed to address the challenges that artists of all disciplines face in the professional components of their creative practices. Artists learn and grow together through artist facilitator mentoring, small peer support groups, and large group topic exploration, all while developing a multi-disciplinary network of local creative peers.

Twenty-five creatives are selected through a streamlined application process to engage in the eight-week seminar led by a team of five artist peer facilitators.

Now in its 13th year, Artist INC has been completed by more than 1,500 artists in the Mid-America Arts Alliance region and beyond. Artist INC LIVE is a program of the Mid-America Arts Alliance and is supported by the National Endowment for the Arts, the Windgate Foundation, and the State Arts Agencies of Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Texas.

Selection Process

How are the applications evaluated by a panel?

Great care is taken to minimize bias and ensure diversity and inclusion in all its definitions including demographics (gender, age, and ethnicity) and artistic discipline (including visual, performing, literary, and film). We ask the panel reviewers to affirm they have reviewed implicit bias documents and video, read our Equity and Diversity statement and M-AAA's Strategic Plan and Values prior to beginning their review process.

During the review process, the panel reviewers will consider the review criteria and select a statement for each application:

- I recommend FOR this application to advance in the Artist INC Fellows selection process
- I am unsure, but inclined to recommend FOR this application to advance in the Artist INC Fellows selection process
- I am unsure, but inclined to NOT recommend this application to advance in the Artist INC Fellows selection process

- I do NOT recommend this application moving forward to advance in the Artist INC Fellows selection process

Review Criteria

Creative Practice
Program Readiness
Balanced Cohort

Creative Practice: Based on the work sample and narrative statements, panelists will consider the applicant's creative practice. Selected artists show a commitment to their craft shown in their body of work, and motivation to expand and deepen their practice within a creative community.

Program Readiness: Based on the narrative statements, panelists will determine the applicant's program readiness. Selected artists will demonstrate the desire to advance their career, express a desire to grow their knowledge base and learn from peers, as well as an interest in sharing their work and process as part of a network of artists.

Balanced Cohort: Panelists will consider the overall balance of the group of fellows to ensure a broad representation of communities, issues, perspectives, and experiences. There is a focus to include populations that have been historically underserved by arts programming including those limited by ethnicity, economics, disability, or geography.

Applications with the highest degree of consensus will advance to the next step of the Artist INC Fellow selection process. The panel reviewers will convene to recommend a balanced cohort of fellows that includes representation of a wide range of creative practices and diverse perspectives.

Who makes the decision regarding who gets accepted into the program?

M-AAA staff does NOT make any selection decisions: panels of community members, artists, arts leaders in your community do! M-AAA staff members are here to administrate the application and panel process, and we're available to answer questions and help applicants with their applications.

A typical review panel is made up of five people:

- A minimum of two panel members will be BIPOC individuals.
- A minimum of two panel members will be practicing artists.
- All members of the panel will be members from your local and regional community, including but not limited to artists, arts leaders, arts administrators, organizers, gallerists, curators, educators, arts supporters, and business owners..etc.

M-AAA is committed to a peer review process that provides fresh and diverse input from an ever-changing field. In addition, M-AAA will consider age, gender, disability, sexual orientation, geography, discipline of arts experience, relationship to arts and culture (e.g. being an artist, arts administrator, or arts enthusiast), and other factors when curating its application review panels.
